

FROM WASHINGTON.

(Special Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 11, 1890.

The funeral of Mr. McLean, of the Cincinnati Enquirer, this morning, was attended by many of the most prominent people of the city, among them being the President, Vice President, Mr. Speaker Reed, members of the Cabinet and of both branches of Congress.

Contrary to expectations, the bill creating a commission to inquire into the liquor traffic did not come up in the House to-day. Those having it in charge had no intention of calling it up, and the impression that it would be considered to-day was created by an unauthorized newspaper statement. The bill has many opponents by reason of the fact that to pass it would be to make prohibition a national, instead of what it is, a State affair.

Congressman Bowden of the Norfolk, Va., district, appeared in his seat yesterday, for the first time this session. As soon as he entered the hall he went over to Langston's seat and had quite a talk with him.

A telegram received at the War Department this morning says that during the trial trip of the new cruiser Newark to-day she broke down.

Among the bills approved by the President to-day was the one for improving the road from Alexandria to the soldiers' cemetery near that city.

The republican members of the House committee on banking and currency this morning agreed that the existing financial condition would be improved by legislation in the interests of the national banks, and directed a bill to be prepared to that effect. They also determined to call up in the House a bill to reduce to $1,000 the minimum amount of U. S. bonds which national banks shall be required to keep on deposit and to permit the issue of circulating notes by national banks to the full amount of the par value of bonds deposited. The committee will move an amendment to provide for the release of greenbacks whenever the national bank circulation falls below $155,000,000. The bill to subject national bank and U. S. Treasury notes to State taxation will be reported favorably.

The House elections committee has two more reports ready for turning out two more fairly elected democratic members, but Mr. Rowell, its chairman, defeated at the late election, says he has not yet determined when he will present them and ask for their consideration.

The Senate has disagreed to the House amendment to the Norfolk public building bill, and asked for a committee of conference. The Senate members of which are Messrs. Spooner, Morrill and Vest.

Naval Constructor Theodore D. Wilson, U. S. N., was nominated to be chief of the bureau of coast action and repairs and chief constructor of the navy with relative rank of Commander to-day.

W. S. Talley was to-day appointed a court clerk postmaster at Beaver Dam Mills, Hancock county, Va.

At the republican caucus last night the Force bill men secured the silver men that they would bear with them a little longer they would afford them every opportunity and all the time they may want for the consideration of their bills. It seems to be the impression to-day that the democratic bill will be enabled, notwithstanding the bolded willingness of Vice President Morton to attempt the Reed role, to postpone a vote on the bill until after the election has been decided.

It is now stated that no less than eight million was the profit made by the silver men by the passage of the present silver bill and the foreknowledge that it would be passed. And yet the republican congressmen gulled the people with the assertion that the bill referred to would redound to their benefit. Under republican administration the affairs of the country are conducted in the interests of the rich at the expense of the poor. But the result of the recent election shows that the latter have at last grown tired of the gross outrage to which they have been so long subjected, and will stand it no longer.

Now that the democratic members of the congressional committee having the Rum investigation in charge have forced their republican colleagues to continue that investigation, it is hoped they will not rest until they compel the latter to make a report. It will be a public disgrace to the whole country if a man proved to be guilty of official fraud and bribery shall be allowed to disburse annually one hundred and fifty million of the public money, even though the President may desire him to do so.

THE PHILADELPHIA Press says, "this country saves one thousand millions a year and lets it down." Oh, no! The republican administration robs the people of the country of more than one thousand millions a year for the benefit of a favored few, and so far from "letting any of it down," leaves a large deficit in the revenues, so as to create an excuse for exacting more from the already tax-ridden people.

AT THE recent election in Massachusetts the question of license or no license to sell liquor was submitted to the voters, and license was carried by a large majority. The people of New England are beginning to understand free institutions and to appreciate correctly the value of their own individual liberties, as well as that of the southern negroes.

MR. ARMOUR, the great cattleman, says "the whole duty of the republican majority in the present Congress is to repeal the McKinley bill as soon as possible. There is no doubt of the fact that the republicans could do nothing better calculated to restore them to popular favor than follow Mr. Armour's wise advice."

THE SIZE of the expected deficit in the revenues is so large that the republicans in Congress have become alarmed and have determined that no more pension bills shall be passed during the present session. Upon the principle that good is better late than never, the determination referred to is to be commended.

WITH THREE such of its prominent members as Messrs. Delamater, Dudley and Baum under charge of gross personal dishonesty, the "grand old party," "the high moral party of the country," would be in a bad way, even if the popular majority against it last month had not been, as it was, 800,000.

THERE is plenty of currency in the country if those who hold it would let it loose. But if there were ten times more, and a dozen more have it in their power to hoard it for stock jobbing purposes, there would be a little of it in circulation as there is now.

THE Season, a lady's illustrated magazine, for January, has been received from the International News Company, New York.

M. Stoenback, a traveling salesman, of Philadelphia, was found dead in his bed at Chicago last night. The room was locked and barred, the windows closed and both gas jets turned on full force.

"BULLS IN A CHINA SHOP."—It was stated to the GAZETTE that Mr. Parnell and his friends yesterday took forcible possession of the office of United Ireland, in Dublin, stopped the presses and turned out his opponents. Late last night a strong party of Mr. Parnell's opponents made a descent upon and recaptured the offices of United Ireland. The invaders destroyed all the "leaders" which had been prepared by Mr. Parnell, who was installed as editor yesterday by Parnell, and turned all the matter they found set up into the fire. Then they took possession of the ledgers and other books and documents belonging to the concern. All this was done in the name of William O'Brien. A strong press from various laborers' societies has been left as a guarantee with instructions to resist by force any further intrusion by Mr. Parnell and his friends.

A dispatch from Dublin to-day says Mr. Parnell proceeded this morning to the office, and with the assistance of a crowd of his supporters forced open the door and again took possession. The police witnessed the affair, but did not interfere in any way. To guard against any further attempts to recapture the office no one was allowed to enter and the doors and windows were bolted and barred.

SALE OF WASHINGTON RELICS.—The auction sale of relics from the estate of General George Washington opened last night in Philadelphia. It is held in final settlement of the estate of Washington, of his executor, Lawrence Lewis, and of Lewis's executor, Lewis Lewis, and is made by order of H. L. D. Lewis, of Virginia, administrator to the estate of Mr. Lawrence Lewis. It includes 491 lots, embracing Washington's private account books, letters and documents, his personal effects kept by relatives as mementoes, a number of books from his library and from that of his mother, Mary Washington, the family Bible belonging to Martha Washington, the music books and miscellaneous books belonging to Nelly Custis, Washington's adopted daughter, and the libraries of Lawrence Lewis and Lawrence Lewis's son. To these relics are added by the auctioneer nearly 400 other lots of interesting autograph letters, books &c., the most important being Washington's letter to General Lee respecting the capture of Benedict Arnold, and Benjamin Franklin's "letter written in the market to his friend Jimmy," these letters being perhaps the most valuable autographs of their respective authors.

An order was made for a reprint of the election bill, with the House provisions and the Senate provisions in parallel columns.

Courtney of Richmond, and J. D. Francis A. Reid, of Alexandria. Over this last office there was quite a lively contest. The other candidates were Senator D. J. Turner, of Norfolk, and W. L. J. Fies, of Calpeper.

KILLED AN ELEPHANT.—The superintendent of the Zoological Gardens in Cincinnati succeeded yesterday evening in killing the vicious elephant "Chief," who received without evident discomfiture eleven bullets fired into his forehead Tuesday night. At the afternoon effort a flank attack was decided upon. The first ball was sent in the direction of his heart. It apparently produced no effect. The second was aimed at his head behind and near the ear. This was effective and in a few seconds the big foreigner was dead, but not until 11 more shots were fired, making the 13th, which, with 11 Tuesday night, makes 24 shots in all.

Ex-Gov. Lee says: "So far as preference for the democratic nomination for President is concerned, I think Senator Daniel is right in saying it would be wisest to let the issue of the campaign be more clearly defined and then to select the man who best represents them." The ex-Governor did say whether he prefers Cleveland or not.

A few days ago Mr. Horace Moffett's eleven-year old boy of Rappahannock county while in the woods saw a strange animal up a tree. He went home, got the assistance of a colored boy of his own age and three dogs. The boys cut the tree down when a wild cat about the size of a fox in attempting to jump fell to the ground. Before it recovered from the fall the dogs killed it. It could have whipped a dozen dogs but for being stunned by the fall.

Tradition has it that a rich silver mine exists near Washington, Rappahannock county, which was worked stealthily during colonial times when all such property belonged to the Crown. It is well known that a rich piece of silver ore was at a comparatively recent date found in the mountains near that place. But years afterwards, when its value was discovered, the locality had been lost. The man moved out West but on two occasions returned and spent months each time looking for the spot but without avail.

A committee of the Virginia Legislature is now in Richmond preparing a report on the oyster interests of the State. The most important question is whether the State should sell its oyster grounds or lease them. Members of the committee feel confident that the report will favor the latter: Not to sell the grounds, but to lease them for a period not exceeding fifteen years; to abolish summer oystering in the Chesapeake bay; to make longer seasons in which it is prohibited to catch oysters. These to extend probably from April 15 to September 15.

A COMPROMISE MEASURE.—The New York growers advocating the sale of fruit and vegetables by weight have come to the following compromise, which will interest the Virginia truck farmers: The standard measure to be the round hoop floor barrel, the staves to be 25 1/2 inches long, diameter of staves 19 1/2 inches, of the head 17 inches, and with a capacity of 105 quarts fruit measure. The retailers at first rejected the compromise, but were willing to amend their weight ordinance if the city should also be exempt from the weight by making the fine for violating it $1 instead of $10 and the time of its taking effect August 1, 1891, instead of January 1, 1891. Provisions to be sold outside the ordinance. This will probably be made the law at the meeting of the board of aldermen Friday next.

There are two forms of chronic rheumatism: one in which the joints are swollen and red without fever; in the other the joints are only stiff and painful. In either form Salvarsan Oil may be relied on to effect a cure. It kills pain, 25 cents.

Popular discrimination in favor of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup has given it a larger sale than any other remedy of its class. Price 25 cents.

The total population of the country, including Indians, &c., will reach 63,000,000.

To California and the Far West.—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has inaugurated a series of tours to be run early in 1891 to the Pacific coast. Each tour will be limited to one hundred passengers, who will travel in a Pullman vestibule train, furnished with the luxurious appointments of the richest home, with ladies' maid, stenographer and typewriter, library, bath and barber, and smoking and library rooms, and an observation car. The first tour leaves New York February 7th, and speeds directly to New Orleans, and then on to Southern California, and directly north to San Francisco, where three weeks is allowed, after which the train is taken for the homeward trip via Salt Lake City, Colorado Springs, Denver, Omaha and Chicago. The company has selected its tour agents and ciphers with a special view to their fitness. The rate for the round trip is but $275, which includes necessary traveling expenses to San Francisco and return, side trips to the most attractive resorts in California, meals en route, and several carriages and stage rides of interest. Applications for accommodations should be made to Mr. Geo. W. Bond, Assistant General Passenger Agent, 233 South Fourth Street, Philadelphia.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—The reactionary spirit was still strong in the stock market this morning, and while the chances in the opening prices from those of last evening were quite irregular, there were in a majority of cases declines. As usual of late, the general list was quite dull. The downward movement was very pronounced in the early trading among the leaders, but the pressure to sell subsequently abated these prices, and a slow recovery set in, in which was sufficient to bring most of the list up to and beyond the opening figures and the weaker stocks nearly to those points. The latter trading developed no feature whatever, and at 11 o'clock the market was quiet and firm, generally at a shade better than the opening prices.

Proceedings of Congress.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 11.

SENATE.

Mr. Cockrell presented a petition from the wage workers political alliance of the District of Columbia, demanding the distribution of $20 per capita, per annum to each public authority, such as States, Territories, districts, counties, cities, towns and villages within the limits of the republic for the purpose of enabling them to pay their debts and expenses without any local taxation whatever, and that national taxation shall be abolished until freedom from debt shall be universal within the limits of the republic.

The Vice President asked Mr. Cockrell to what committee the petition should be referred.

Mr. Cockrell—To the finance committee as the only committee that can cope with it. It was so referred.

Mr. Cockrell also introduced at the instance of the same body, a bill to establish a department of banking. Same reference, (which was agreed to), instructing the postoffice committee to inquire into the feasibility and advisability of a law for postal savings banks in connection with all or certain classes of postoffices throughout the country.

The resolution offered yesterday by Mr. Plumb for daily meeting of the Senate at 10 a. m. and for recesses from 5:30 to 8 p. m. was taken up.

Mr. Rangan thought that Senators might just as well be frank with one another. They all understood on both sides that the object of the proposition was to choke off debate on the elections bill and to prevent its deliberate consideration. If that were the purpose of the majority it had the power to carry it out. This resolution was the first step in that direction, and would be in harmony with the purpose of the bill, in revolutionizing the government and in taking away from the States the exercise of powers and the performance of duties which had belonged to them since the formation of the government. The bill proposed to change the form of the government from one of self-government to one of force and coercion. Such a change ought not to be made without most careful deliberation.

Mr. Morgan also argued against the resolution. He doubted whether there were five Senators on the republican side who could tell the provisions of the Senate substitute; and he believed that there were many Senators on that side who had never read either the House bill or the substitute.

The discussion on Mr. Plumb's resolution was kept up (amid considerable excitement on the floor and in the galleries) until 2 o'clock, when it went over without action. The election bill was then taken up, and Mr. Wilson, of Iowa, addressed the Senate in its advocacy.

HOUSE.

The House after a little unimportant business next sent into committee of the whole on the fortification appropriation bill.

The bill was passed, together with a bill appropriating $400,000 to meet a deficiency in the appropriation for public printing and binding.

The bills providing penalties for election fraud, and for removing causes from States to federal courts were passed.

Mrs. Dennis on rising beat and kicked at the door demanding her children and her clothing. Finally she went to her mother's home about half a mile away. For some time past the gossip of Greenport have been circulating stories in regard to Mrs. Dennis's acceptance of the attentions of Frank White, a young Brooklyn man. These stories finally came to the ears of Captain Dennis who became so jealous that, as above stated, he threw his wife out of the house.
